Commitment to disabled people - Disabled applicants can face additional challenges to gaining employment and we are committed to promoting employment opportunities for people with disabilities.

Definition of disability - Under the Equality Act 2010 a person has a disability if she/he has a physical or mental impairment which has a substantial and long term adverse effect on his/her ability to carry out normal day to-day activities.

Impairment - A disability can arise from a wide range of impairments including: mental illness, learning disabilities, deaf and hard of hearing, sight impairments, diabetes, dyslexia, heart conditions, etc.

Substantial - This is something more than minor or trivial and beyond normal differences in ability which may exist among people.

Long-term adverse effect - The effect must be a detrimental one and is long-term if it has lasted or is likely to last for at least 12 months or for the rest of a person's life. If the effect is likely to recur beyond 12 months it is treated as long term.

Normal day-to-day activities - These are activities carried out by most people on a fairly regular and frequent basis. They do not include specialised activities which are normal only for a particular person or a group of people.

Progressive conditions - This applies to conditions which will increase in severity over time and are medically diagnosed as likely to have a substantial adverse effect on the ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities before they actually have this effect. Examples include muscular dystrophy, systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE), various types of dementia and motor neurone disease. A person who has cancer, HIV infection or multiple sclerosis (MS) will automatically be considered disabled under the Act. Those officially certified as blind or sight impaired by a consultant ophthalmologist may also automatically be covered.

Past disabilities - The Equality Act 2010 also covers people who have had a disability in the past.

Commitment to safeguarding of children and young people

The post for which you are applying gives substantial access to children. Thrive Education Partnership is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and all staff working with children and young people are expected to share a commitment to this.

Employment is conditional upon the results of an enhanced Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) check (with a barred list check) and Social Media check, which will indicate your suitability to work with children.

Applications for teaching roles will involve a check of the Teaching Council's Prohibition List, to ensure they are not subject to a prohibition order issued by the Secretary of State.

Any job offer will be conditional on the satisfactory completion of the necessary pre-employment checks. Only applicants who have been shortlisted will be asked for a self-declaration of their criminal record or information that would make them unsuitable for the position.

Any convictions that are self-disclosed or listed on a DBS check will be considered on a case-by-case basis.
